Rare Election Contest In Sanitary District— Balloting Due Tuesday

Menlo Park Sanitary District voters will go to the polls next Tuesday to cast ballots in a rare contested election, with a challenger facing two incumbents for positions on the district's board of directors.

Dr. Lawrence H. Cook, civil engineer who resides in Atherton and Roy Grey, warehouse company executive who resides in Menlo Park, are the incumbents.

Challenging them for a seat on the five-man panel is Patrick (Pat) J. Moran, 286 San Luis Drive, former executive secretary of the Bay Area Pollution Control District and operator of a chemical sales and distribution firm.

The challenger, 52, says he thinks sewer services can be provided at less cost than at present; the incumbents defend the present policies of the sanitary agency.

The district is composed of Menlo Park, the portion of Atherton south of Atherton Avenue, unincorporated areas to the west included Ladera and some parts of Portola Valley, and University Village in East Palo Alto.

Next Tuesday's election will be held at a single polling place, at the Menlo Park Sanitary District's headquarters at 450 C Street in the Menlo Park civic center area.

There will be two election boards, however, in case of a heavy vote.

Moran, a resident of this area since 1941 with the exception of time out of town for army service during World War II and the Korean War, has been a resident of California since 1929.

His family includes his wife and five children.

His present firm is known as Production Service, a chemical sales and distribution firm.

PATRICK MORAN

DR. LAWRENCE COOK

SEES 'LESS COST'

"I am confident that sewage services can be provided at less cost and that is why I want to be on the board of directors of the Menlo Park Sanitary District," Moran said in announcing his candidacy.

"My industrial experience has been in the operation of chemical plants.

"Returning to the bay area after the Korean War I helped organize and then managed the business affairs of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District; I returned a year ago to start my own chemical company.

"I believe that it is time for us to be smart and take a closer look at the cost of operations of the district which takes care of our sewage disposal," Moran declared.

"I'm convinced that we no longer need nor can afford separate operations like the Menlo Park Sanitary District. These little governments in obscurity take a big bite out of the taxpayer. The tax rate of the Menlo Park Sanitary District is almost half that of the city of Menlo Park."

Moran calls for closer control of the money handled by the district and closer accounting practices.

Combining activities of the district with those of other governmental subsidies also was seen by the challenger as a way of saving money.

He also calls for routing effluent of several area sanitary districts to a single disposal plant for pumping to the deep channel of San Francisco bay.

Campaign of Dr. Cook, 65 and Grey, 58, has been combined and is being operated by a committee headed by Dr. L. Howard Fenton.

"Of the seven sanitary districts in San Mateo county, only one has a lower general tax rate (20 cents) than the Menlo Park district which has had a 25 cent tax rate for a number of years. Two of the districts have more than double this rate," Dr. Cook stated.

However, he added, outstanding general obligation bonds have raised the absolute total to slightly less than 32 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

"We have always adhered to the practice of having proper scientific and technical operation at minimum cost," Dr. Cook continued.

Grey, 58, a former city councilman of Menlo Park, has been a member of the district's board of directors since 1944. Currently, he is chairman of the sanitary district board.

The father of four children, he has lived in the district for the past 27 years.

"In spite of the rapid increase in the costs of labor and materials in the past 15 years and the necessity for expensive treatment of sewage which was formerly poured into the bay, the tax rates of the Menlo Park Sanitary District have remained nominal," Grey observes.

The tax bill of the sanitary district amounts to about 3½ per cent of the total paid by the average Menlo Park taxpayer, he adds.

Dr. Cook, senior member of the board, has served on it since 1933.

Press Nears 'Home'

City Checks Need for Cut In Sand Hill Speed Limit

ALMOST READY . . . . . for installation in the plant of the Menlo Park Recorder, the newspaper's new $125,000 offset press Tuesday was unloaded from a truck in Redwood City after its "piggyback" ride from Chicago via rail. Reloaded yesterday by a local rigging firm, all 20 tons of the new machine were to be delivered this morning for start of installation in the plant at 640 Roble Ave. The new press is expected to go into operation in a week or 10 days, in time to produce the Recorder's special PROGRESS '62 edition, now scheduled for September 27.

Traffic Count Begins

Menlo Park police this week were conducting traffic and speed surveys in preparation for a city Traffic Safety Commission study of possible lowering of the speed limit along Sand Hill Road.

State-set limit along the section of the road west of Santa Cruz Avenue is 55 miles per hour; the traffic safety board will meet next Wednesday to see if lowering it is feasible.

A lower speed limit has been requested by the city council and by leaders of "Project M," the linear accelerator construction project just west of Stanford Hills residential subdivision.

An access road from the accelerator construction project to Sand Hill recently has been completed.

Under state law, speed limits may not be lowered along state routes unless there are a certain number of accesses per quarter of a mile.

Though there are few accesses onto Sand Hill at the present time ,access streets are increasing in number and volume of traffic.

Hence, according to Traffic Safety Board Secretary Michael Bedwell, the traffic survey at this time.

The TSC will meet next Wednesday

In Menlo Park Schools:

Non-Graded Class System Is Coming

School District trustees here Tuesday got a look at a new program aimed at non-graded primary classes and more departmentalization in upper grades, and promptly agreed it looked like a good one.

The trustees also agreed that they'd have to launch an extensive "education program" to acquaint the district's residents and taxpayers with the advantages of the new redeployment of tachers.

The new set-up, recommended by District Superintendent Franklyn White, calls for an extension of the district's present "open ended" curriculum in the lower grades, and better utilization of teachers with specialties in upper grades.

The redeployment is to be "phased" into the district's program over the next three years but during the current year, teachers on all grade levels will be taking in-service training courses which are to help make the program operable.

School administrators present said they felt teachers were "enthusiastic" over the new program and members of the school board didn't criticise it.

White, introducing it in a long memorandum, said his thinking on such a program evolved over 30 years in the education profession. He added, however, that he was not planning to build toward a seventh and eighth grade school or a "junior high" system.

Reason for introducing departmentalization at this time, he said, was that he felt the body of knowledge has grown to such an extent that it is difficult for a single teacher to maintain both knowledge and enthusiasm in all of the specialties which are taught in the modern school.

"When I came to the district I expressed two basic concepts toward education," White recalled.

"These called for development of skills, habits and attitudes that fit an indivldual for participation in a democratic society, and skills, habits and attitudes which encourage individual development.

"We should emphasize the basic subjects, because it is on these that all other learning depends," he went on, "but we should also adequately teach geography, history, art, physical education and a foreign language."

Further discussion pointed up the fact that going to upgraded primary classes and departmentalizing on the upper grades won't change the "mix" of what's taught, but will merely aid in taking advantage of special skills of teachers.

In his memorandum White noted,

"In the past, teachers in the self-contained or nearly-self - contained classrooms have had the responsibility for teaching all or nearly all subjects in our curriculum to a group of pupils on a given grade level.

"The teaching of each subject was expected to be done with equal skill and effectiveness.

"This was a reasonable expectation at one time but it is becoming less so as staffs become less stable, as subject content changes, as new approaches to teaching certain subjects such as mathematics, science and geography are expected to be used, and as teachers are expected to improve in their ability to teach each pupil so that he learns to the maximum of his potential.

"The changes suggested are concerned with pupil grouping and staff utilization."

Mechanics for the implementation of the program will vary with separate schools.

BETTER GROUPING

But basically, White said, ungraded primary classes will allow grouping of pupils so that a teacher will have fewer "learning rate" groups and on the upper level, teachers with special talents or enthusiasms, such as in mathematics, will be able to teach these more of the time.

However, he pointed out, pupils in the upper (fourth through eighth) grades will spend most of their time with one teacher, thus allowing for preservation of a valid teacher-pupil relationship.

The plan as presented, White said, was flexible.

Trustees agreed that the program suggested appeared to be a good one; however, they cautioned the district should make every attempt to contact parents and other adults in the district, so as not to "scare" them.

White said he was willing to contact people and explain the program "until coffee is running out of my ears." He added that other administrators in the district, including the principals at the schools, also were ready and able to explain it to parents.

In answers to questions from the audience, White pointed out that the "ungraded primary" probably wouldn't result in getting more children of more than a year or two of age span in the same class. He said that this was no worse than presently is realized in some classes.

Trustee Dr. Hiram Mears said he felt the modern school should be organized "much like a medical center."

Complicated Series of Auto Parts Thefts Brings Arrests

Police of several jurisdictions are to meet in San Jose today, try to unscramble charges against eight area young men—and possibly more—found to have been involved in a car parts theft ring.

Jailed last week were four from Menlo Park and Atherton and four additional suspects from Santa Clara county.

The involved charges stem from the asserted theft and re-sale of Corvette sports cars, parts and accessories and the re-sale of same; included in the charges is one that a local man removed a supercharger from his own car, hid it, billed his insurance company for it, and sold it.

The case apparently broke when a car identified as having been equipped with stolen parts was sold in San Diego.

Value of property involved has been estimated at $3000 but is probably more, police said.

Local men charged in the complicated case are:

David E. Brown, 21, 1311 Mills St., charged with grand theft and now awaiting superior court trial after pleading not guilty.

David Delaney, 19, 202 Santa Monica Ave., charged with grand theft and to appear Sept. 11.

Richard Sommers, 97 Mosswood Way in Atherton and Kenneth Mason, 19, of 59 Lupin Lane, accused of stealing magnesium wheels worth $1200 from Corvettes stolen last January.

In the action are police departments of Menlo Park, Palo Alto and Stanford and the California Highway patrol. Some of the car-stripping was done on the campus, a Corvette was stolen in Palo Alto and in Menlo Park some car stripping was done.

Brown, police recall, reported a supercharger stolen from his auto last January, when it was parked in a carport at a Noel Drive apartment. It later turned up on a car Brown is said to have sold.

Delaney is accused of having helped Brown steal a car from Palo Alto last May 28.

Police say Brown then substituted the identification and license of his own Corvette to the stolen vehicle, repainted its wheels and turned it over to one Jesse Fisher, who later sold it for $2100.

Some time shortly before that trip Brown, accompanied by Sommers and Mason, transported a load of stolen Corvette parts to Fisher, who police said sold them to a San Diego "speed" shop.

Two Palo Alto youths also have been picked up; they are charged with grand theft on the basis of two car strippings on the Stanford campus last May and June.

There may be more arrests in the future, police say, because the suspects keep implicating others when questioned.

School Buses Due to Run Wednesday

Pupil transportation should be restored in the Menlo Park School District on next Wednesday, Sept. 12, School District Business Manager John Richert reported Tuesday night.

Thus, an issue which brought larger audiences and more interest to school board meetings than any in years appeared to be drawing to a close.

Richert was directed to open negotiations with Western Greyhound Lines, for restoration of the service, at a special meeting of the school board on Aug. 28.

The service had been eliminated following defeat of a school district permissive tax measure June 5.

Richert explained that the restoration takes time because the bus company has to allow its drivers time to bid on the transportation job, in keeping with union agreements.

The bus company has set $33 per day per bus as fee for serving the district, and transporting primary grade children who reside more than three-quarters of a mile from school, and upper grade children who live more than a mile from school, to it.

Read into the record Tuesday night was a single letter from Mrs. R. J. Rountree, protesting the restoration of buses.

Several letters mailed before the Aug. 28 meeting but received after it, calling for restoration of the service, were not read, since they no longer concern an item before the board.

Mouth-to-Mouth Resuscitation Saves Woman, 43

Menlo Park Fire District Firemen Monday resorted to mouth-to-mouth resuscitation methods to restore breathing of an Atherton housewife, they reported this week.

The victim was Mrs. L. H. Arnstein, 45, of 76 Catalpa Drive.

Firemen, called to the Arnstein home at 6:05 p. m. were told that Mrs. Arnstein had fallen into the swimming pool; she had been dragged from it by other members of the family, who also called the firemen.

Mrs. Arnstein was taken to Palo Alto hospital

After a Delay:

School Tax Study Group Members Being Selected

Makeup of a citizens' committee which has been chartered to study the maximum permissive tax rate which the Menlo Park School District should seek at an election next year will probably be announced at the next meeting of the school district's board of trustees.

Frank Lodato, chairman of the citizens group, has been ill, it was reported this week by School Board Chairman William Platt.

Platt added that the short delay should not slow up the studies to be made by the committee, which are to be completed early next year.

The panel, chaired by Lodato who was selected as an "interested neutral," includes both proponents and opponents of last spring's permissive tax rate proposal.

Members of the school board and the district's administrative staff will be called on to supply information on which the committee is to base its recommendations.

The committee has been charged with making recommendations on three topics:

1. When the election should be held.
2. What permissive tax rate maximum should be sought.
3. Whether the rate should be for a maximum number of years and if so how many, or "open ended."

The permissive tax rate election will be necessary because the present maximum rate will expire next year and, if a new rate is not adopted, the maximum will return to the state-set limit of 90 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Bond Study On Citcom's Next Agenda

Preliminary plans for a Ravenswood Citizen's Advisory Committee study of ways and means of financing new school district classroom construction will be discussed at next Wednesday's meeting, Ben Marsh, committee chairman, announced.

The session will be held at 8 p.m. in the school administration building, 2160 Euclid Ave., East Palo Alto.

Featured speaker of the night will be Dr. William H Miller, registrar of the College of San Mateo's extended day division. His topic: "Education for All — The Elementary School Districts' Responsibility."

Dr. Miller will delve into the challenges and rewards of providing quality education for youngsters of widely differing abilities and of varied cultural, social and economic backgrounds. A question-and-answer period will follow.

Supt. of Schools Roderic V. Moore will give a brief report, touching upon his formal request to the committee to begin the classroom financing study.

The committee meetings will take place on the second Wednesday of each month during the fall.

Unexpected Enrollment Jump In Woodside Showed Tuesday

An unexpectedly high student enrollment swelled Woodside's one grade school this week as youngsters flocked back to classes Tuesday. Some 440 pupils — 15 more than anticipated — began sessions a week ahead of the neighboring Portola Valley and Las Lomitas school districts.

Las Lomitas and Portola Valley schools will begin the fall term next Tuesday morning, with the two districts expecting a total enrollment of roughly 2270 students.

The Woodside School finished the year in June with 409, and had only anticipated 425 for this week's opening.

Woodside school trustees were to meet last night to review the enrollment and, more important, a second school site to meet the increase.

The board has been considering several alternate sites for a proposed second school after learning that a Tripp Road location borders the San Andreas Fault and could be a definite earthquake hazard.

It was also to continue talks last night on a proposed meeting of the Woodside, Las Lomitas and Portola Valley school boards to review the idea of unifying the three districts.

The Woodside and Portola Valley boards have gone on record opposing a county study committee preference for one grade school district for the Sequoia Union High School District area.

This Sunday the Woodside School's 21 faculty members will be welcomed back at the annual PTA executive board dinner.

School Opening In District Termed Normal

A total of 2123 pupils showed up at the five schools of the Menlo Park Schoool District Tuesday, as they opened for the new year.

There were some full classes at Hillview School but no unanticipated problems. There will be possibly 100 more pupils added to the roster when Stanford Village opens later this month.

John Richert, school district business manager, said yesterday that some classes at the second, fourth and fifth grade levels at Hillview were "nearly full."

Slides Take Council to Sister City Galway and Home Again

Menlo Park City Councilmen were treated to a tour of two cities — and a town — Tuesday night.

Both were accomplished without moving from the study meeting in the city council chambers here.

College student Mark Matthews gave the council a pictorial report on his visit to Menlo Park's Irish sister city, Galway, and to the town of Menlough. That was the home base of Dennis J. Oliver and D. C. McGlynn, Menlo Park's co-founders.

And City Manager John R. Johnson also used a slide projector to show councilmen how sales tax money has been used on public buildings, landscaping and parks in this city.

Matthews, 19, 319 Oakwood Place, Menlo Park, was accompanied on a trip to Europe, England and Ireland by Ken Eldred, 19, 60 Michael's Way, Atherton, and Alex Bryner, 19, 1401 Johnson St., Menlo Park.

They carried with them a letter of introduction from Menlo Park Mayor William R. Lawson to his counterpart in Galway, Fintan Coogan.

The three graduates of Menlo-Atherton High School travelled in Ireland by car, truck and rowboat, Matthews said.

The youths later bought a Volkswagon for use in their European travels but depended upon friendly Irish motorists and truckdrivers to give them lifts in that country.

The Connacht Tribune in Galway was one of the trio's first stops when they arrived.

Editor Jack Fitzgerald greeted the travellers. They also met then-Mayor Coogan, who has now finished his term in office and is an alderman again.

"The town of Menlough is pretty difficult to reach by car as Mr. Cab Burley, publisher of the Menlo Park Recorder, discovered when he made his trip here," Matthews said. "We decided to make the trip by rowboat."

The boys rented two boats—at 75 cents per day—and headed up the River Corrib from Galway.

Their pictures of the boat trip showed Ireland as it is pictured in song and story—green pastures, whitened stone walls at the edge of each farm, deep blue skies decorated by cumulus clouds.

One picture, taken near Menlough, showed a town resident backing his pony cart up to a jetty where he began filling a barrel with fresh river water.

The trio reached the ruins of Menlough Castle, ancestral home of the Blake family, which is situated close to the river. They took pictures there "but we had to shoo some cattle out of the way first," Matthews remarked.

There were several outstanding color slides shown of the castle, ruined by fire in 1910 and never rebuilt.

The city councilmen also saw several views of the small town of Menlough, where whitewashed buildings with thatched roofs predominate.

Matthews also played a tape recording of a talk with Coogan who welcomed the travelling students to Galway in Gaelic and in English.

THANKS

The councilmen thanked Matthews for the pictorial tour of a beautiful country and Johnson said he hoped to have pictures made from the transparencies for use by the city.

The council will also send Matthews a letter of appreciation.

The local student expects to enroll at Occidental College in February. During the trip abroad, which lasted from Sept. 17, 1961, to May 30, 1962, the three young men also attended college in Lausanne, Switzerland for six months.

Johnson's pictorial tour was of a different nature. He displayed color slides he used at luncheon meetings of business groups and service clubs.

Pictures were shown of the police station building exterior and interior, the community activities building model and building site, Joseph Kelly, Park, Willow Oaks Park, the schools where the city and school district have joint recreation development agreements, Stanford Hills park, Sharon Heights park, the Nealon Park recreation area, and landscaping along Alma Street.

He also included slides taken of various industrial and business developments which have occurred here in recent years.

The council also received the completed brochure describing the communities activities building which is being sent to firms interested in bidding on the $450,000 bond issue. The bids will be opened at the Sept. 25 council meeting.

Area 4-H Club Members Get Scholarships for Work

Five outstanding 4-H boys and girls of San Mateo County were presented scholarships at a recent 4-H Awards Banquet held at the San Mateo Elks Club.

Tammy McAulay, Carol Pifari, Mike Kiely, Mike Wright and David Hunter were presented the 4-H scholarships for their outstanding 4-H club project work, leadership and scholastic ability, according to Elmira Liebau, home advisor, and Robert R. Ward, farm advisor, Agricultural Extension Service, Half Moon Bay.

Miss McAulay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McAulay, of 280 Mt. Wood Lane, Woodside, has been a member of the San Mateo County 4-H Equestrian Club for three years. Her projects have included light horse, clothing, junior leadership, foods, and sheep.

Tammy plans to enter Willamette University in the fall, majoring in mathematics or French. Henry Bostwick, vice president, made the scholarship presentation to Tammy on behalf of the San Mateo County Development Association.

Miss Pifari, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pifari of 165 Jane Drive, Woodside, has been a very busy member of the Equestrian Club and served as president the past year.

Her projects have included light horse, clothing, food, junior leadership, and lamb fattening. Carol will enter Whittier College in September to major in home economics. A. L. Castle Company of Mountain View sponsored Carol's scholarship.

Castle Company also gave Kiely, another Equestrian Club 4-H'er, his scholarship to the University of Redlands to major in physics or music. Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kiely of 206 Manzanita Way, has been a 4-H member for seven years, carrying such projects as rabbits, poultry, sheep, and light horse.

David Hunter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hunter, 155 Mt. Wood Lane, Woodside, has been an active 4-H member of the Portola Valley 4-H Club for six years. Beef, light horse, and junior leadership have been his outstanding projects.

Because of David's interst in beef, he will enter California Polytechnic College in September to major in agricultural business. The San Mateo County Farm Bureau donated the scholarship which was presented by Al Adreveno, president of the organization.

Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wright of 1533 Portola Road, Woodside, is a member of the Woodside-Atherton 4-H Club. His projects for the past five years include beef, junior leadership, poultry, sheep, forestry.

Mike will enter Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., to major in history. He received the San Mateo County 4-H Equestrian Club Scholarship presented by Miss Pifari, president of the club.

SAN MATEO COUNTY . . . . school officials taking part in the tremendous K. O. Polio drive are, from left: Warren Natwick, Assistant County Schools Superintendent; S. S. Mayo, Assistant Superintendent of the Sequoia High School District, and James R. Tormey, San Mateo County Superintendent of Schools. Men are seen inspecting one of the county's K. O. Polio vaccine stations.

Senior Citizens Hear About New Vaccine

People over 40 many not contract polio as frequently as youngsters, but like everyone, they can "carry" the disease to others -- especially to their grandchildren.

However, the coming Bay Area "KO Polio" campaign can end that therat forever, some 300 San Mateo County senior citizens learned recently at a picnic in Woodside.

Dr. Edward A. Barthold of Menlo Park told them the new, dramatically effective Sabin oral polio vaccine not only immunizes against the diseast but also prevents spread of the virus to others. Previously used Salk vaccine daes not prevent transmissien from person to person.

The tasteless vaccine, taken with a lump of sugar, will be given to all San Mateo, Santa Clara, San Francisco, Alameda, Contra Costa and Marin county residents in three doses, on Sept. 23, Nov. 4 and Dec. 9, at conveniently located neighborhood vaccine centers.

Consolidated Shifts Execs

Several management appointments in subsidiary companies of Consolidated Freightways were announced this week by the trucking firm's president, William G. White.

Austin Schnase has been named president of the Freightways Terminal Company, replacing Jack Howay. The move will enable Howay to devote full time to his duties as CF's director of terminal operations, White pointed out, adding that Howay would continue on the terminal company's board of directors.

Schnase and Howay have offices in Menlo Park.

The appointments will become effective Sept. 1.

Ex-Menlo Vet Opens PA Office

Dr. A. P. Cascinai, who practiced at the Animal Medical Center at 1258 El Camino Real until last week, has announced the opening of a new veterinary hospital in Palo Alto.

Dr. Cascinai, who received his degree from Colorado State University, will specialize in the treatment of small animals at his new pet hospital, 3045 Middlefield Road.

SJS Extension Sets Geography Course for M-A

A San Jose State College extension course in "Geography and Contemporary World Problems" has been slated for Menlo-Atherton High School Sept. 26-Jan. 16 it was announced this week.

The course, to be instructed by Dr. C. Langdon White, will carry three units of college credit; it will be conducted in three-hour sessions on Wednesday evenings from 7 p.m. to 10 p. m., and will meet each week except Dec. 19 and Dec. 26.

The course focuses attention on certain areas of the globe and considers the reasons behind the human drama that is taking place on earth.

It attempts to help teachers and others to understand factors behind contemporary world problems and their relationship to geographical concepts.

Further information may be had by contacting Paul Hannig at the San Mateo county schools office, EM 8-3901; registration must be made not later than the second meeting of the class.

City Awaits Bids On Construction

The Menlo Park City Council made a call for construction bids on the Community Activities building official last week.

The bid opening will be Tuesday, Sept. 25, at the regular city council meeting.

At a previous study meeting, Councilman Ira Bonde had asked that City Manager John R. Johnson try to get an agreement in written form from the Menlo Park Sanitary District.

The city must purchase part of the sanitary district property in the civic center for the activities building site.

However, Johnson reported negotiations are not complete. The council agreed that they would take the risk of calling for bids now because of what architect Kingsford Jones has called a "favorable construction market."

BOND SALES TOTAL

United States Savings Bond sales in San Mateo County totalled $365,506 during July, it was announced this week by County Savings Bond Chairman George McQueen.

Bird Park May Get 'Home' In Palo Alto

A proposed bird park that hasn't had luck locating in Woodside or Portola Valley may very possibly be picked up by the City of Palo Alto, it was learned this week.

Alex Isenberg, one of the park's promoters, said he will present a detailed master plan of the bird sanctuary to Palo Alto city councilmen within the next week or two. He reported that Palo Alto's city manager and many of the councilmen are favorably impressed with the idea, and in general "the situation looks good."

Isenberg, a noted ornithologist who lives at 451 Portola Road, is eyeing 30 acres of undeveloped land just south of the Palo Alto Hills Country Club. The property is located in Palo Alto's newly created recreational park area, and if approved for the bird sanctuary, would be leased to Isenberg.

The Palo Alto location is accessible via Page Mill Road. Isenberg noted it will be more valuable with the four-lane highway proposed for Page Mill and its extension.

Firemen Mail Dance Tickets

Menlo Park Fire District firemen yesterday mailed 18,000 letters of invitation to homes throughout the district, asking residents to join them at their 24th annual ball here Sept. 22.

William Bradbury, ticket chairman, said envelopes for the invitations were all addressed by off-duty firemen.

"We had no trouble getting volunteers," he reports, "because all of the men are enthusiastic about this year's dance. We think it'll be a good one and we are sure the public will enjoy it, too."

Through oversight, he cautioned, it's possible that some residents might not get the written invitations, but tickets to the dance will be available at the door and are available at all fire stations.

This year's dance is to be held at Burgess Park gym, from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Adult School Names Mentors For Languages

The Menlo-Atherton Adult School announces the employment of two new language teachers for the fall quarter beginning this week.

Marvin A. Sezak, teacher of German and Russian in the Cupertino High School, will teach German beginning Thursday, Sept. 13. Sezak holds a bachelor's degree from Dartmouth and a master's degree from Stanford, specializing in German and Russian. He has studied and traveled in Germany and received the following honors from Dartmouth: Phi Beta Kappa and Magna cum laude.

Walter S. Bava, language teacher of Sequoia High School, will teach Spanish I beginning Sept. 12. Bava holds a bachelor's degree, and a master's degree from the University of California. He has traveled in Mexico and has had ten years experience teaching Spanish.

County Planners Eye Chan Center

The first and unfinished unit of the controversial Chan medical research park near Woodside will be eyed again next Tuesday by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

However, it appears certain that the board will grant another extension to the developers for completing the three-story building.

John McWilliams, designer of the building, said work probably will resume next week, with completion slated within 60 days. He said the supervisors have indicated they'll go along with this.

Tuesday's hearing is concerned with the first unit as it relates to possible further construction on the Kings Mountain Road property.

The county planning commission recommended denial of six additional units proposed for the center. The promoter, Dr. Wallace Chan of Atherton, and his associates are appealing this. Supervisors' action, however, must await completion of the first unit.

The center, which has drawn fire from Woodside town councilmen, is described as an administrative research park where primarily "think" type medical activity will take place. Retired or semi-retired scientists with government grants are expected to staff the center.

Body of Missing Man Found Here

A body identified as that of Gonzales Sausedo, 69, of 237 Poplar St. in Redwood City, was found by a Menlo Park street department worker here Tuesday.

The man, reportedly a victim of Parkinson's disease and mentally ill, had been reported missing since Friday from his home, police said his wife had reported.

She told police his illness required medication four times a day and an all-points bulletin was sent out.

When discovered, police said, Sausedo's body was found half submerged in a pool of water behind the Allen Equipment Co. at 700 Hamilton Ave. There was no evidence of foul play, they added.

The man apparently had been dead for about 24 hours before his body was discovered.

Police said the county coroner's office took charge of the case, and would determine exact cause of death.

Funeral services are pending.

From Italy:

M-A Exchange Student Still 'Getting Used' to This Area

Menlo-Atherton High School's exchange student for this year, 18-year-old Fulvio Cristiani of Italy, last week was still getting used to his home for the next school year.

In fact, he was just getting his feet on the ground.

Fulvio, from Rome, is to spend the year as a member of the Robert Hirschboeck family at 1280 Garden Lane.

But his first two weeks in the United States were pretty well occupied with a trip to the High Sierras as a guest of Explorer Scout Post 109 and, he admitted on his return, most of the parts of the bay area which he'd seen, had been viewed from an automobile.

The 18-year-old high school senior was chosen as delegate to Menlo-Atherton after passing a series of tests in his native Rome, among them an English examination.

He passed the test but, he admits, he's still a little unsure of some of the words and carries his English-Italian dictionary with him.

"He understands quickly and won't have any trouble, though," says Bob Hirschboeck, 17, also an M-A senior and son of Fulvio's hosts.

The year here is sponsored by the American Field Service, which annually sponsors such exchange students at Menlo-Atherton and Woodside High Schools.

When he gets back to Italy, the young student says, he plans to enter the University of Rome as a student of political science and economics.

Since his stay in this area was too short, at the time he was interviewed, to allow him a complete judgment of Menlo Park he had no views on it. But he conceded that the Sierras are "pretty beautiful mountains." His trip there took him to Lone Indian Lake, near Huntington.

The Italian student joins a family which has made its home in Menlo Park for the past nine years. Besides Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Hirschboeck's children include a married daughter and a younger daughter, Mary, who resides at the family home.

Economist Joins Institute as Senior Officer

Dr. Daniel Marx Jr., formerly chairman of the department of economics at Dartmouth College, has joined Stanford Research Institute. Dr. Marx' appointment as a senior economist in the industrial economics division was announced this week by Weldon B. Gibson, SRI executive vice president.

A native of the Bay Area and a graduate of San Francisco's Lowell High School, Dr. Marx is returning to California after more than 20 years in the East during which he has held a variety of important appointments in both government and academic circles.

In addition to his faculty appointment at Dartmouth which he has held continuously since 1941, Dr. Marx served as a senior staff member of President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisors in 1956-57.

At SRI, Dr. Marx will pursue his specialized interests in international economics, finance and transportation.

Himself a Dartmouth graduate, Dr. Marx received his Ph.D in economics at the University of California, Berkeley, in 1940, where he held a teaching fellowship. He then joined the Dartmouth faculty becoming professor of economics in 1948 and department chairman in 1957. He has held joint appointments in both the College and the Amos Tuck Graduate School of Business.

Father, Son Team Will Show Art At Library Here

The Menlo Park Public Library throughout September will feature a joint show of oil and water color paintings by Charles M. Stevenson and his son, Dr. Thomas C. Stevenson, of Menlo Park.

The oils featuring harvest time still lifes are the contribution of the elder Stevenson, while his son, a local opthalmologist, is showing a group of water colors under the general heading of "Faraway Places."

Charles Stevenson worked with the late Madame LeFarge of Boston and the late Charles Best of San Francisco. He attended the Rudolph Schaeffer School of Design.

Dr. Stevenson studied design with Wilfred Radio of Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh and art at Stanford. He also attended the Schaeffer School.

The exhibit is being arranged by Mrs. Evelyn Johnston, art chairman of the Menlo Park Friends of the Library.

SHEPPARD AFB, Texas (Special)—Airman Third Class Alfred P. Gfroerer of Atherton, is being reassigned to McChord AFB, Wash., following his graduation from the United States Air Force technical training course for aircraft mechanics here.

Airman Gfroerer was trained to maintain and service reciprocating engine aircraft and aircraft systems.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Gfroerer of 82 Linda Vista Ave., Atherton, the airman attended the College of San Mateo.

Planners Deny Apt. Variance

Apartment developer Carey Plaskett has been set back because of a setback.

Menlo Park Planning Commission members turned down his bid for a variance that would allow parking within the front setback of an apartment building proposed for 945 Crane St.

Plaskett may appeal the action to the city council or redesign the building to eliminate the parking problem.

As We See It:

Sanitary District Has Good Record

Voters of the Menlo Park Sanitary District Tuesday will elect, or re-elect, two members to the district's board of trustees.

It's a rare thing when the Sanitary District has a contested election; it's one of the less spectacular public agencies insofar as spending and scope are concerned, but it's a very important one nonetheless; in fact, the sanitary district was one of the first public agencies to be organized here.

We commend the public spirit of Challenger Patrick Moran, who is running against incumbents Dr. Lawrence Cook and Roy Grey, but on the basis of performance we cannot agree that the incumbents should be turned out of office.

We recommend their re-election.

Remoteness Has Advantages In Finance for Colleges

It's school time again and once more, administrators are sending out their "enrollment growth projections" which show the need for more construction. Through the years, though, a trend is making itself apparent: The outcry for more space used to be most noticeable on the elementary school level; now the pleas for more building funds are coming from the high schools and colleges.

The latter agencies, whether state-supported or privately endowed, are in a much less vulnerable position than elementary and high schools, insofar as having their financing cut off is concerned.

The state colleges, for instance, get their money from the people by a means sufficiently indirect to make it possible for them to stay relatively clear of bond issues and the like, and the privately endowed schools can boost tuitions and entrance requirements in a ratio that assures they'll be able to maintain high academic standards, while efficiently using funds as they come to hand.

Then, there are the federal research grants which many colleges and universities rely on to finance some of their construction programs, all paid for out of your tax money.

The wailing and gnashing of teeth that is hear whenever a new school finance measure is put up for public approval gets short shrift from these remoter agencies and it is well that this should be so. Judging from what we've seen happen on the elementary school level — with "taxpayers' committees" and the like crying bitterly and educational faddists and special pleaders trying to get into the act whenever a finance measure is mentioned — the high cost of college education would rule it out for hundreds of thousands of young people, if voter approval had to be obtained for all construction measures in that field.

Just Protesting Isn't Enough

Last week, a group of Bay Road residents appeared at the Menlo Park city council meeting to protest proposed improvement of a couple of blocks of that street.

Improvement of their section of the street, they contended, would move things that much closer to turning the road into a thoroughfare — a possibility the residents don't like to contemplate.

This is symptomatic of our times. Everybody has seen formerly quiet residential streets turned into through trafficways, has seen homes bulldozed into oblivion to make room for freeways, and has faced the threat of displacement by new accommodations for the automobile.

What nobody seems to have faced is that the solution to the problem ultimately must lie in designing smaller autos, riding in them less often, or finding a substitute.

Certainly, we all like to make use of our cars — what's called "individual mass transportation" in the literature. So if it were to come to a vote, you can get almost anybody to cast a ballot for a freeway or an expressway in somebody else's territory — a situation similar to that which developed at Willow Road Freeway hearings here last year.

As, if and when that trafficway is completed the displaced residents of its right of way will have to move elsewhere. Very likely, they'll move to new homes in residential areas a little more remote from their jobs, than those they presently live in. They'll demand more roads, interchanges and other means of access to the places where they work, shop and visit for their entertainment.

There will naturally be a few more car-miles put in, and more hours on the road. Somebody else, therefore, will have to be displaced out of his home to accommodate these previously displaced residents.

The whole thing can be expected to grow by geometrical progression. Perhaps the place to stop it is on the local level but to do so will call for a fundamental change in thinking on the part of every one of us.

We'll have to stop and reassess the actual value we get out of operating our automobiles. We'll have to add to the cost of gas and oil and depreciation and insurance the other costs — what the operation of our cars means in the taking of homes, the loss of convenience, the wrecking of cities and the disruption of neighborhoods.

And we'll have to apply this cost not to ourselves, but to all of our neighbors. Just getting the freeway or the through street or the arterial pushed over a block, so it discommodes somebody else instead of ourselves, isn't the approach that will lead to a solution of the problem.

Another one of those sports which we all consider typically American" gets identified this week as having ancient origins.

It's football.

Water in the streets begets water in the streets.

Sunday, a main at University Drive and Oak Grove Avenue burst, sending a cascade of mud and water down the gutter toward El Camino.

The next day, after repairing the main, water company workmen opened a fire hydrant so the fresh, clean water could wash the mud out of the gutter.

Lots of children had a great time sailing boats and things, along Oak Grove Avenue for a few mintues.

The wig is back in style and, judging from newspaper reports from Chicago and Hollywood, so is wig-snatching. But if history is any teacher, the worst is yet to come.

The Egyptians were among the first to use wigs, but World Booy Encyclopedia points out that they had an excuse of sorts — wigs protected them from the heat of the sun. When the style came back in the 1600's, it was strictly for vanity's sake, and the repercussions were felt by innocent babes and national treasuries.

From the moment Louis XIV became bald, the wig was the thing in Paris, and the style quickly jumped from the Channel into England. The English, eager for a diversion after the gloomy rule of the Cromwells, took up wigs with a passion. Wig-snatching might have been expected. But soon children were being forbidden to go out-of-doors alone, lest some enterprising thief snip off their locks.

Fortunately for French children, their elders preferred horsehair. And they imported so much of it from Germany that it threatened the country's fold reserves. Colbert, the minister of finance, pleaded in vain for a law to prohibit wig-making.

We wish we had space to quote the whole thing, but maybe we'd better save some items for another week. Anyhow, the San Francisco Zoological Society's periodical bulletin, "What's New at the Zoo," reports thusiy:

"The Lesser Pandas may be breeding again after four years of barrenness. Keeper Henry Poggi noted the female panda was building a nest. She has four males to choose from, although no baby pandas have been born for such a long time.

"These active animals make a good display and remind one of raccoons. They hold food with their paws, and will hold a leaf while chewing on the other end — just as you or I might hold a piece of celery.

"The zoo's pandas don't care for bananas, though books say they should, but do thrive on bread, milk and, especially, bamboo leaves.

"The zoo's pandas are usually silent except at night when they occasionally scream at each other during a small hassle.

"Social note on panda's keeper: Congratulations to Mr. Poggi, just returned from his honeymoon."

County Comment:

Jail Farm Plan Looks Better

By FLOYD F. McCUE
Editor and Publisher, Redwood City Star-Advertiser

The Santa Cruz Lumber Company has agreed to "play ball" with the county in its plans to build a dam on Pescadero Creek to supply water to the drought-stricken south Coastside area.

This paves the way for an immediate start on the "temporary" county jail farm on the site of the Boy Scouts' Camp Pomponio.

Previously lumber company officials had refused to go along on road plans, claiming the dam was not practical and they would lose too much valuable timber land—estimated at between 3500 and 5000 acres.

Most everyone seems to feel that the dam project, estimated to cost between $3.5 and $5 millions, is a fine thing for the county in general and the Coastside in particular.

There is quite a bit of alarm, apparently, that the "temporary" jail farm will become a permanent thing. The new county boys' camp is located close to the area and San Francisco's Log Cabin Ranch for boys is also near by.

Will this be a center for prisoners, even if many of them are only youths? County officials say "no," but the terms of a lease completed with Boy Scout officials indicate the permanent thought may be closer to being right.

The county has signed a three-year lease at $9500 rent per year. There is an option for another three-year extension.

Does three or six years indicate temporary or permanent. Depends on how you look at it. But with indications the dam can be completed in less than three years, why the need for an extension?

Despite some fears, the camp site may be the best place for a jail farm.

It would stop the protests from Half Moon Bay over locating the jail farm at the Half Moon Bay Airport.

Prisoners who are assigned to such a camp are not dangerous criminals, it is pointed out. Several jail prisoners have been assigned to the county-owned airport at Half Moon Bay for several years, but no one pay any attention to them.

For the most part, they are bad check passers, drunk driving violators, and the like; not dangerous but still must serve time.

Certainly no one wants a jail farm near him and it just may wind up that the site near the dam will become permanent.

We agree with many people who feel that convicted prisoners should help provide for their own keep by doing work for the county. Prisoners can keep out of a lot more trouble putting in their time on road or park projects, than they can sitting in a jail cell. With the new hall of justice jail terrifically overcrowded most of the time, a jail farm has become a necessity.

It would have been established long before if every site picked had not been knocked down by protesting property owners. There will be fewer protests to the Camp Pomponio site jail farm than probably any other that could be chosen.

The California Taxpayers' Association has some interesting figures on the increasing tax load on Californians. It points out that the state collections reached an all-time high of $14,614,500,000 in the 1961-62 year completed June 30.

This is an increase of nearly 14 per cent in the two years. Federal taxes totaled $8,977,000,000, state taxes were $2,912,000,000 and local property and sales tax combined reached $2,725,500,000.

A breakdown shows the nine Bay Area counties composed of 3,860,000 people, paid a total tax bill of $3,416,300,000—an increase of $427,700,000 in just two years. On a per capita basis, it added up to a $62.88 jump from $821.29 in 1960 to $884.17 in the year which ended June 30 this year.

For a family of three, the increase in the tax burden alone amounted to $188.64 on the average. Which government showed the most increase? The federal government was up 5.9 per cent, the state 8.8 per cent, local property taxes 12.5 per cent, and sales taxes 10.3 per cent.

"Local property taxes" take in a lot of territory, including the schools, which everyone knows, climb faster than any other agency.

San Mateo county long has been near the bottom of the list statewide in taxes collected on a per capita basis.

We're sure the same picture will be in order again and maybe improved after a one-cent drop in the county rate while other counties are showing sizeable increases. A comparison of actual county rates will be available soon.

More Crime Reported In Menlo Park

The files of the Menlo Park Recorder reveal that, 30 years ago this week, the following items, here reproduced exactly as first published, were news in the young community.

Sept. 2, 1932:

At 10:10 last night, Police Officer Thoms Kearney received a rush call from Tony Guerrero, stating that two Filipinos were engaged in a fight in a house at the end of Valparaiso Avenue. As this location is outside the city limits, Kearney at once notified Constable Jack Grill of the occurrence, and then he and the Chief of Police went to the house.

On their arrival they found ——— laying on the floor with numerous bad gashes in his head and upon questioning ———, who was the other participant in the fight, he admitted the attack.

A common meat cleaver was the weapon used, and from appearances it is a wonder that the victim still lives.

The local police are to be complimented on the speed which they show in answering calls of this kind and the fficiency of their work.

The "crazed gunman" who last Thursday morning launched a reiogn of terror over the Peinnsula and San Francisco, when he shot up the Chiliville cafe and wounded a patron, was believed this week to have transferred his hectic burst of crime to the east bay . . ."

Municipal Report:

Rec Programs Readied for Winter Here

The city of Menlo Park's summer recreation program is pretty much drawing to a close but that doesn't mean all of the city's recreation workers are going to shut up shop.

In fact, as programs in hand indicate, the rec department actually is going to find itself faced with heavier, year-long activities.

The department now has a 'teen-agers' program coordinator and he's already prepared a schedule of activities for people of this age group for the coming school year.

Also, with the Menlo Park School District "pulling out" of the after-school recreation program at the school grounds, the city's rec department will have this area of endeavor to oversee, also.

It's probably just as well that things are being rearranged along these lines.

A substantial number of people under 18 are in are described as the "'teens," and from the financial aspect alone, it is well that the school agencies get out of recreation.

Originally, when the joint city-Menlo Park School District proagram was set up, it was felt by members of the school district board that the principal of the school — who has the ultimate responsibility for what goes on on his grounds — should have a voice in the selection of the personnel.

It was also felt that those working on school playgrounds after school and during the summer should be paid a minimum wage set by the school district, since they'd have to have qualifications of which the educators approved.

Result was that playground supervisors at the schools made more money than, for instance, those at Nealon Park, during a given summer. This created problems.

Later on the school district had its own recreation people. But since these were teachers as well as playground people, it was necessary to let them come to work an hour or two later than other teachers, because they stayed later in the day.

This again created probiems. Instructional time was lost.

With the school districts waging a continued fight for revenues, it's logical that educators should drop, first, those programs which they feel contribute the least to actual instruction.

This is true in the Las Lomitas and Ravenswood school districts as well as the Menlo Park district, portions of all of which are within the limits of the city.

Presumably, with the city operating the program, it'll be possible to have uniform programs at all schools in town, resulting in better coordination and possibly stronger after-school athletic leagues and better competition.

There are no high schools in town, however, so it can be expected that the program for people of this age group will center at Burgesss Park, where there are facilities available.

There will be more facilities available there in years to come, too, with the first of the additional ones coming with completion of the upcoming community activities building project.

Unfortunately, Burgess Park is situated in the center of the city and therefore youngsters from both far west and far east extremities might have more difficulty getting there than, say, youngsters from some parts of Atherton.

This is certain to bring on a certain number of complaints but it's readily apparent that the city can't afford community centers within a mile or a mile and a half of every home.

Planners Discuss:

County Indicates New Zoning In Store for EPA 'Triangle'

Elimination of most commercial zones and institution of multiple-family zoning for virtually all of the Woodland Avenue - University Avenue - Bayshore Freeway triangle has bee nproposed to the San Mateo County Planning Commission.

The recommendation came from the county planning staff. No immediate action was taken, pending the setting of a public hearing by the commission.

Staff members said this week that the hearing date will be announced shortly to residents of the area.

The recommendation came to the planning board in the form of a 10-page "interim zone study" which was authorized last November.

The major points:

—Past actions of the planning commission have indicated that the area should become a predominately multiple - family residential area.

There is a considerable amount of commercial zoning on Bayshore frontage road that "will not be necessary or desirable" in the future. All C-1 (neighborhood business) zoning, excepting at the corners of Newell Road and Clarke Avenue with the freeway frontage road ,should be eliminated, the planning report said. Sufficient commercial uses exist in the adjacent University Avenue shopping area to serve the present and future population.

—A C-2 (general commercial) at the southern tip of the triangle 'is not compatible with residential uses and, with the exception of a trailer park, is not intensively used for C-2 activities." All of the C-2 zone, excluding the trailer park, should be changed to multiple - family residential, the report said.

—The report recommends that, in those zones where multiple - family residences are allowed, the apartment building sites should have a density of one apartment unit for each 1250 square feet of the site.

—In a two-block area at the north end of the study area, a density of 1650 square feet per unit is recommended. This has been done because lot sizes there are smaller than in the remainder of the study area. The average density now existing there is actually greater than this.

In making the study, the planning staff intensively analyzed apartment developments of 13 selected sites and also checked the remaining 24 apartment developments for "selected aspects" of multiple-family uses.

Average lot size of the 13 sites was 22,022 square feet and ranged from 4690 square feet to 51,500 square feet.

The 13 "study" apartments also ranged from 32 to 53 per cent coverage of their particular sites. The average was 40 per cent. The main objective of a coverage restriction is to "prevent overcrowding of the land and to help assure sufficient 'light and air'," the report said.

Usable open space around the 13 apartments — patios, grass areas and so on — averaged about 18 per cent of the lot area.

Deadline Near For Filing Of New Voters

"Many residents of the county eligible to register and vote at the Nov. 6 General Election will be unable to do so unless steps are taken to become registered in the next week," comments John A. Bruning, county clerk.

The last day to register or correct your registration if you have moved, for the Nov. 6 General Election, is Thursday, Sept. 13. Registration qualifications are citizenship, age 21 or over, one year's residence in the state, 90 days in the county and 54 days in the precinct prior to the date of the election.

In addition to the Election-Registration Department in the Hall of Justice and Records, Redwood City, and at the offices of all city clerks, over 490 registration deputies are conveniently located throughout the county to take voters' registration.

Pennies for Portola:

Valley Center Begins Fund Drive for Building

The Portola Valley Community Center launched a campaign this week to raise money for a building site.

Called "Pennies for Portola," the drive has been initiated through a progress report and appeal sent to 500 families in the valley. Mrs. Philip Grimes, the center's chairman, said she hopes the communication will soon reach all valley residents.

"Key land in Portola Valley is continually being allocated for other than residential purposes," Mrs. Grimes noted. "So we are hopeful of support in furthering the cause of cultural and recreational activities of a general community interest."

Until land is available to build a community center, various center activities will be held in individual homes and Portola Valley Elementary School facilities will be used as often as possible, she explained.

In line with its new bid for recognition, the group will stage the first in a series of "Portola Valley Community Center Presents" at 7:30 p. m. on Sept. 14. This will be a "family" feature movie plus cartoon in the multi-use room of the Portola Valley Elementary School.

Recently a small fund was transferred to the center from the original Portola Valley Recreation Committee, headed by Mrs. Richard Shearer, a former valley resident.

Funds from the Portola Valley Recreation Committee were donated by the late John Francis Neylan in 1957, the year the committee was formed.

Until a few weeks ago, the center had headquartered in the old clubhouse of the Alpine Hills Swimming and Tennis Club.

City Manager's View:

Lots of Municipal Problems Same All Over, Traveller Says

Recently back from his vacation, City Manager John R. Johnson this week mused that, if you're in the business of public administration, you're apt to find your trips turning into a "busman's holiday."

The city manager found this out on a long trip which he and his family took through the northwest.

Also, he had confirmed for him the view that planning to accommodate the automobile is the biggest problem facing cities throughout the area in which he traveled.

"When you drive through a town, you usually are traveling on a 'through' highway," he observed, "and the usual impression is one of how well the traffic engineering problem has been handled.

"That is, you're interested in how fast you'r able to get through the town and, at the some time, how well services are made available to you."

Among the latter, the city manager explained, are such things as restaurants and service stations.

SPECIAL NEED

In his own case, the city manager went on, there was also a need for block ice to cool food in the trailer which he and his family towed along. That's getting to be a pretty rare thing to find, too, he said in some parts of the country.

"Besides considering the 'through' trafficways, I find myself looking at the same things we have to deal with in Menlo Park," he went on. "This consists of looking at street improvements, hazards that are left untended, condition of parks, sidewalks, signs that are used, and other municipal installations."

The city manager pointed out that in some cities, he found himself "frustrated" by a lack of directional signs to aid in locating points of interest.

The same lack exists in Menlo Park, however, he added, and a study was launched some weeks ago to ascertain what kinds of signs are needed and in what locations.

"Another thing one tends to notife, if he's in this business and on vacation, is how zoning standards are maintained in the various communities," Johnson continued.

"In many smaller communities you notice that there seems to be almost no control over signs, and you find that many smaller communities will permit mercantile establishments to exist next to manufacturing plants or service stations."

Reason for this, Johnson speculates, is that a small community wants to encourage business to locate, and will make compromises which would not be allowed in a better settled area.

Common to all cities, however, he said, is the traffic problem.

SEES SUCCESSES

Some communities have had good success with one-way street patterns, others have done good work with the timing of signals in the regulation of traffic.

Roadside rests along the freeways of Washington and Oregon, Johnson added, impressed him; the state of California is starting to install some, too.

"Without any question," he emphasized, "the biggest planning problem facing all communities is that of accommodating the automobile," he said.

"As long as we're going to have these automotive 'champagne tastes' with the income we have to spend on freeways, parking garages, and other accommodations, we're going to continue to rob ourselves of one of our most precious commodities — time.

"We'll continue to waste it looking for parking spaces, being inconvenienced by restrictive traffic patterns and otherwise finding our ability to get from one place to another limited."

The aspect of rural and semi-rural communities also provided the city manager with diverting thoughts:

"It's fun to speculate, when traveling through these areas, on what they'll be like in 10 or 20 years and what should be done — now — to assure a balanced community.

"But it's always difficult to persuade people who for generations have had all the space they need to start reserving it for specific purposes."

By and large ,the city manager concluded, Menlo Park didnt' appear to be faced with too many major problems, compared with other communities he saw during his travels.

AT ANN ARBOR

Bob Blair of Menlo Park was one of seven San Mateo County Explorer Scouts to be present at the first national Explorer Delegate Conference, held Aug 26-30 at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

SM Bar Panel Studies Law Changes

Legislative committee of the San Mateo County Bar Association has recommended several changes in the law to the Bar Association membership, it was announced this week by Stanley E. Arden, Menlo Park attorney who is spokesman for the committee.

Among other recommendations, Arden said, the legislative committee has recommended changes in the classification of criminal insanity, which holds that a person is sane if he knows the difference between right and wrong.

"A more enlightened view in keeping with the rules of modern psychiatric practice should be followed," Arden reports the committee felt.

Another change recommended, Arden said, is in the law regarding "conspiracy to commit a misdemeanor." At present, when two or more people agree to commit a minor crime which is a misdemeanor, the fact that they conspired can be interpreted as a felony and a penitentiary sentence may ensue.

Many technical changes also are envisaged.

Firemen Friday evening used three tanks of oxygen, maintaining the breathing of a heart attack victim until she could be safely removed to a hospital.

The victim was Mrs. H. Lubfin, 241 Selby Lane, to whose home the firemen were called at 10:12 p.m.

Mrs. Lubfin later was removed by ambulance to a hospital.

FIRE NEAR TRACKS

Firemen Saturday noon extinguished a grass fire at Marsh Road and the Dumbarton railroad cutoff which, they said, was apparently started by a carelessly-discarded cigaret.

SRI Geologists Sees Uses For Atom Blasts

NEW YORK, N.Y. (Special)—Results of underground nuclear tests in Nevada and New Mexico have given rise to consideration of the use of the explosive release of nuclear energy for mine blasting.

Dr. Robert B. Hoy suggests that nuclear explosions in mining will be effective and economical. He has written an article on the subject which appears in "Mining Engineering."

Dr. Hoy is senior geologist, Stanford Research Institute, Menlo Park, and has been in close contact since late 1958 with all the underground nuclear testing programs in projects sponsored by the AEC, Navy and Air Force.

"Mining Engineering" is the official publication of the Society of Mining Engineers of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical, and Petroleum Engineers. His observations are presented in a special review of the tests. He says in part:

"The tremendous potential of nuclear explosions for mining, as well as other exacavtion applications, is believed to justify aggressive continuation of the Plowshare Program.

"The economic advantage of nuclear explosives for special projects appears to outweigh the inconveniences of radioactivity, air blast, and seismic shock."

Valley Schools Welcome 14 New Teachers

Fourteen new teachers will be welcomed to the Portola Valley Elementary School District next Tuesday at the start of a two-day teacher workshop session.

On Wednesday the teachers — 36 in all — were feted at lunch by the district's Parent-Teacher Assn. They'll also hear from Arnim Weems, curriculum coordinator for county schools, and Dr. Sheldon Woodward, speaking in behalf of the San Mateo County Medical Society. Dr. Woodward will point up the importance of the September 23 polio immunization drive.

Of the 36 teachers, four will be teaching at Ormondale School, 13 at Corte Madera, and 14 at Portola Valley. Five others will be special instructors at Portola Valley.

Susan Valette Bunting Is Sunday Bride

Organdy Gown Chosen

MRS. KENNETH HILLS KERWIN II

Gowned in formal dress of white organdy decorated with three dimensional flowers, Susan Valette Bunting became the bride of Kenneth Hills Kerwin II at a late afternoon wedding conducted on Sunday at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church.

Sue is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bunting of Menlo Park. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Kerwin are the bridegroom's parents.

Kenneth, a graduate of Menlo-Atherton High School and of Pomona College, is now a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army stationed at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. The young couple have planned a wedding trip around their tour there where they will establish their first home.

Sue's sister, Sally Bunting, was maid of honor for her sister. Beth Roberts, Judy Boynton and Penny Durfee, all friends since childhood and all Menlo Park residents, were her bridesmaids.

Sue's organdy gown was fashioned with a scoop neckline, short sleeves and a wide taffeta midriff sash and controlled bell skirt. Her cathedral train was in peau de soie.

A tiered veil of ilusion net was secured by a wreath of blossoms. The bride carried an arm bouquet of Happiness roses which emphasized the embroidered roses in her dress. The attendants carried white baskets filled with white carnations.

The color scheme for the wedding, at which Father John R. Wyatt officiated, and for the reception, was white and green. Floral arrangements in the Bunting home, where the reception was held, were done in Victorian style to underline the style of interior decoration. All the trees in the garden area were decorated with flower filled bird cages of varying sizes. A feature in the garden area was the playhouse where tree and front porch were decorated in a miniature reproduction of the main house. Sue tossed her bouquet from the porch of the play house.

Mrs. Bunting received her guests in a gown of leaf green silk ottomon accented by a waist corsage of Eucharest lilies. Mrs. Kerwin wore green cymbidium orchids on the shoulder of her rose-beige brocade costume.

Best man at the wedding was the bridegroom's brother, Bradford Kerwin. Kenneth's ushers were Pierce Marshall, David Graf, William Carr of Atherton and Michael Fallon of Menlo Park.

Sue studied at Castilleja School, Menlo-Atherton High School and Harcum Junior College.

Navajo Night:

Couples Club Slates Speaker

Couples Club of the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church will stage a Navajo Night as their quarterly dinner fellowship on Friday, Sept. 14, at 6:45 p.m. at the church.

Reverend Roger Davis, a full blooded Navajo Indian missionary-minister, will be guest of honor.

The church, as part of its national missions program, helps sponsor Rev. Davis, who is in charge of the mission to the Navajo Indians in Indian Wells, Arizona. His work of preaching, teaching, singing, etc., is done in the native tongue.

Rev. Davis first became interested in the church when he was a young man at Fort Defiance in 1916. He started out as an interpreter and in 1936 was permitted to go out and preach to his people as an evangelist No American whites were doing this at this time.

The speaker was born in the heart of the Navajo country in 1894. His parents had never seen a white man and young Roger had never been in a school house until Sept. 12, 1907. He entered a federal boarding school and remained there until 1916.

On July 7, 1922, he became an interpreter at the Chinle Presbyterian Church. He remained there until his marriage to a young Navajo girl in 1925. They have five children and now five grandchildren. Three of the children work for the Navajo tribe at Window Rock. Reverend Davis has done mission work with the Navajos since 1916. After moving to Indian Wells he was elected to the Navajo Tribal Council.

Committee members in charge are Harrison and Maria Williams, Robert and Ruth Stonehouse, Jim and Mary Hanchett, Dave and Dorothea Chamberlain, Victoria Louda and Owen and Julie Cline.

Dinner tickets may be purchased at the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church between services or by calling Jim Hanchett at DA 5-5189. Those unable to attend the dinner are welcome to come to the program.

Zinfandel Grapes:

Vinters Branch Proclaims Viennese Wine Tasting

Heuringen, the Austrian term for a party built around the tasting of new wine, is a word on many lips as the weekend approaches.

For on Saturday, in the late afternoon and evening, a Heurigen will be held at the Woodside home of Mr. and Mrs. John McKee.

Gathering in the Redwood Grove of the Woodside property will be supporters of the Peninsula Symphony and their guests. Tasting of the zinfandel made by the McKees from their own grapes and other vintages will be a part of the festivity as well as singing, dancind and feasting.

No better locale for the light hearted Viennese style party could be chosen. For here, the family gathers grapes and engages in the time-consuming and satisfying endeavor of making their own wine.

Picking of the zinfandel grapes usually takes place in September or October. This year, because of the cold winter, picking will probably be in October. This becomes a festive affair when friends of John and Barbara McKee join the picking. Last year about 15 adults aided by 15 children accomplished the picking in a day's time after which they relaxed at a barbecue given in the Redwood Grove. It is here that the McKee's prefer to do their entertaining and it is here that they barbecue family dinners except on the rare occasions when weather prevents.

After picking, the grapes are put into a crusher which mangles them to remove the juice. Next step takes place in the fermenting vats. The grapes are in this stage for about a week

After fermentation the liquid goes into a press so that everything but the juice is drawn off. Then the wine is ready for the barrels. It stays in the barrels for various lengths of time aging. Depending on the year, moisture, ripeness and many variables the wine of each successive year has its own distinctive taste.

AUTHENTIC COSTUME . . . . for Saturday's Heurigen (wine tasting party) to be held at the Woodside home of John and Barbara McKee is worn by Mrs. James Ricklefs (at right). Planning also to attend the new wine party which will include dinner, singing and dancing for the support of Peninsula Symphony are Mrs. Kai Freitag (standing) and Mrs. Edward C. Persika.

Costello Foresees Improved Year For RHS Sports

Improvement in all after-school sports was forecast this week by Ravenswood High School Athletic Director Howard Costello as he surveyed the prospects for 1962-63.

In one sport — basketball — there's a great chance that the Trojans will repeat their dominance of the SPAL.

Football has not been Ravenswood's strong suit in the But Costello, after several weeks of working out with a crew of 38 enthusiastic varsity candidates, sees an improved season ahead.

He also expects a solid sign-up for frosh-soph football coming up when school starts next week. Tom Rivera and Bob Jagelski, a newcomer to the local coaching ranks, are the mentors.

Boys interested in water polo, cross-country and C and D basketball will register for these sports at that time.

Costello said he is especially interested in getting a few words across to freshman boys interested in competitive sports.

"If you're a new 10th grader and want to get into sports here, DON'T wait until you're a sophomore," Costello emphasized. "Start now when you are a freshman."

It's possible that frosh boys won't see a great deal of action in their first year. But the experience of team play is absolutely invaluable to the boys when they are sophomores, juniors and seniors, Costello said.

There are all kinds of sports for all kinds of boys, he said.

The most glamourous, of course, is football. The frosh soph schedule made to order for boys still developing grid talent. But athletes who may not be too big in size shouldn't despair. The Ravenswood High C and D basketball teams are the defending SPAL champions and coach Tom Crane is always looking for newcomers who can qualify for lightweight basketball.

Boys interested in water sports can contact John Weber. The water polo team will play a junior varsity schedule this year. For those in the know, water polo is a rugged, interesting sport. Boys should begin, Costello said, when they are freshmen.

Some youngsters are interested mainly in track. This fall coach Steve Barooshian hopes to have both varsity and jayvee cross-country squads. The harrier sport is a great conditioner for the regular spring track season.

"You dyed-in-the-wool trackmen shouldn't just be standing around this fall," Costello added.

Costello said, too, that boy who plan to go out for fall sports can speed up the process of qualifying by completing their medical exams as soon as possible. Boys can pick up cards at the athletic office and have them signed by the doctor when the exam is finished.

The athletic director also said he hopes to have a doctor at the school this week to conduct exams. Athletes will also need insurance and can contact any physical education department member for information about this.

Getting back to the fall sports scene, Costello said he's been pleased with the spirit shown in varsity workouts held prior to the start of school.

The Trojans have a host of hard - running, quick backfield men. Development of the line is proceeding, although unforeseen circumstances have hurt the team there even before the season started.

Two 190-pound tackles counted on for plenty of duty won't be around. James White, a junior, was seriously hurt in a auto accident this summer and

Sequoia Lions Open Sunday With Festival

"I don't think we'll end up last this year," says coach Wayne Bell of the Menlo Park entry of the Sequoia Lions Football League, preparing to take his charges into their first action of the season Sunday in the SFL Festival at Woodside High School field.

Bell's confidence and hopes for his 10-13-years-old budding pigskinners stem from their large size, good all-around speed and their rather impressive showings in a couple of scrimmages.

The Festival, a six-quarter thing that will have all four SFL clubs participating, begins at 11:30 a.m. Sunday. Each club will play three 15-minute quarters, facing a different opponent in each. The sked: Redwood City-San Carlos, first period; Menlo Park-East Palo Alto, second; Menlo-San Carlos, third; Redwood City-East Palo Alto, fourth; East Palo Alto-San Carlos, fifth; Menlo Park-Redwood City, sixth.

This will take the place of the post-season Sequoia Bowl game, which has been plagued by rain in the past, with some damage resulting to the Sequoia High field.

Bell figures to resume his potpourri of the T, single wing and spread formations for this years' ten-game schedule in an effort to improve on the dismal 2-6-2 record he got stuck with last time out.

Eight returning "veterans" and some tough newcomers are counted on to perform this feat.

Leading those back are quarterback Bill McMonigle, halfback Randy Demeter, tackle Greg Valladao, end Dave Wotila and linebacker Barry Lenahan — if Lenahan can make the 110-pound limit at Sunday's weighins.

Good things are expected from some of the new boys, notably guard Bunky Fischer, ends Mike Beall and Al Martinez and quarterback Lory Godbe.

The Menlo Park eleven will settle down to regular league competition next Sunday, Sept. 16 at Woodside, meeting the East Palo Alto aggregation.

. . . But First Things First

Rough at M-A

A small turnout may be easier to handle, but the one they got for varsity football at Menlo-Atherton High School this year has only one portent — rough going ahead.

Head coach Art Boettcher is a picture of restrained enthusiasm with his 40 prospects this week, although the first week of drills with equipment usually has some 50 or so boys working. Shot through by graduation and needing to rebuild anyway, those missing are as conspicuous as those present.

For example, there were four promising new quarterback candidates figured on at Bearville — none have shown. Several sophomores and at least three returning veterans haven't indicated they'll be around either.

Then, to top it off, Boettcher got the best passer he's seen around M-A in junior John Kellam, a quarterback and transfer from Menlo School, only to find that Kellam is ineligible for a semester because of residence requirement difficulties Kellam was the Menlo junior varsity QB last year.

The picture is almost a photographic negative of last year's scene, when a fine defensive unit and some gutty offense propelled the Bears to a 7-2 record and second place in the South Peninsula Athletic League. No such repeat surprise is seen this time by observers.

Four regulars are among 13 returning warriors, but only two served on that fabled defensive unit, namely guard Mike Connaway and halfback Bill Cook. And the two than made it really click —guard Russ Banducci and tackle Mike Damsgaard, both all-SPALers — going to be hard cookies to replace.

They're going to give it the old try, try, try anyway. Big fullback Dick Copenhagen and bigger center Pete Klein are eyeing their old starting positions, with th rest of last year's group ready to fill in the holes

These will include Jim King, a southpaw quarterback, place kicker Bruce Morningstar at end, Jim Rising and Bob Tofanelli at guards, Carl Clark and Charles Grant at tackles John Brigham possibly going from end to center and half back Cliff Gamble maybe moving from halfback to end to make use of his good hands.

But there are some of last year's frosh-sophs who must be counted on for competition, not the least of which are fireplug halfback Mel Shuman, rated a hot number for a first string job, and tackle Gary Lodi, who got Banducci's old No. 77 jersey and now is looking to fill his shoes, too.

Besides many new faces Boettcher also is changing over from his wing-T of last year to a slot-T, to get better running blocking. It looks like it'll be needed, starting Sept. 21 when the Bears open with Burlingame High at Burlingame.

39th YEAR—No. 36 THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1962

DeZur Tops Sweat Sox Stats

Peninsula Police Athletic League final baseball statistics, though incomplete, were released this week by league player agent Phil Ramsdell. As expected, they show that the Menlo Park Sweat Box had a good season at bat but not so good on the mound.

Not all final statistics were available on all teams, including the Sweat Sox, but enough to give league coaches a basis for their all-league selections, which will be announced shortly.

Third baseman-pitcher Darryl DeZur topped the Menlo Park hitters with an even .400 batting average. In all, five Menlo Parkers swatted .300 or over and nine were .272 or more.

On down were catcher Harry McMillen .380, infielder Mike Ward .375, infielder Bob Tipton .333, pitcher-infielder Dick Posey .300, infielder-pitcher John Matthews .275 and outfielder Gus Bayle, pitcher-infielder Dave Armstrong and infielder-pitcher Bob Hall .272 each.

Infielder Steve Gonsiorowski of the Belmont Bucs was the leading hitter for average, with a .467. San Carlos Rotary outfielder Jack Rosicky was next with .460.

Redwood City Police Youth Club's Bruce Pfeiffer and Harvey Shank were the pitching leaders, each with 4-0 won-lost records. Other hurlers at the top were Belmont's Ron Fell, 5-3, San Carlos Lions' Bill Laich, 4-3, and San Carlos Rotary's Jeff Mitchell, 4-1. Pfeiffer led in strikeouts with 41.

Matthews, a righthander, and Posey, a lefty, compiled the best Menlo mound marks. Posey coming in at 3-1 and Matthews at 3-3. The Sweat Sox posted a 6-8 record for the season, good for fifth place in the eight-club loop.

Wildcat Gridders Promise Improvement This Season

Change a few names on the program and it would seem that this year's edition of the Woodside High School varsity football squad just returned from lunch and is ready to start where it left off.

Not so, coach Paul Braunreiter thinks, and this week he started out to prove it, beginning with the Wildcats' first workouts in pads Tuesday. Seventeen troopers back, including 12 lettermen, from a squad of about 28 is a good average in anybody's scouting book. And with last year's experience and another year of growing, Woodside is ready to support its corner of an seemingly well-balanced South Peninsula Athletic League this season.

Among other things going for them is a line averaging close to 190 pounds, biggest yet for Woodside, and a relatively fast backfield, another Woodside first, although it still isn't blinding velocity.

But it is the same backfield that last year caused opposition many headaches while the Wildcats were punching out a 5-3-1 record, still another top in Woodside's three-year varsity grid history.

True, halfback Dick Burke is gone but Don Pooley, sidelined in early season with a broken ankle as a starter, should ease the loss. Steve Clark, a junior, is at the other half, with chunky Dick Specht back at full and Bill Welsh ready to resume calling 'em and passing 'em.

Always deep in ends, the Cats welcomed back Harvey Shank and Terry Wendt, two long-armers, to go with the rest of the returning front wall of Doug Vierth and Big Jon Green at tackles with Bob Watson coming over from linebacker to join them. Gary Brewster and Bill Arrigoni at guards, and Fred Pieper moving to center to battle Jack Davis for that spot. Fullback Rick Concannon and halfback Bill Carrozza again are backfield insurance, along with twin halfbacks Bill and John Roberts and halfback Bill Thompson.

Of course, you don't just lose all-SPAL end Jeff Jones or end Gary Thurston, who would have been all-SPAL but for an injury, or center John Scott or guards Des Conyers and Charlie Kirgis without feeling it. But the replacements are there, the argument at the Churchill Ave. campus goes.

Add to the returnees some warm frosh-soph prospects and Woodside fans will become adamant about a good year. Quarterback Steve Ford and halfbacks Tom Jenks, Steve Crosby and Little Jon Green (no relation to Big Jon) likely will work primarily on defense.

Tackles Ted Boutacoff, Mike Steiner and Wayne Schaefer, guard Rich Schirmer and center Dennis Enzenbacher are big enough. And they're fat on ends among the new boys, too, with lanky Rich Kemmerle and Dick Dwiggins joining the outpost corps.

Right now, of course, Braunreiter is putting his 50-man squad through fundamentals and in installing his wing-T offense in preparation for the Cats' Sept. 21 opener against Mills. From this good turnout he expects the squad will pare itself down to 40 or less by that time.

The Wars Ended in Satisfying Style:

Homer Gives Reds a Flag

The Menlo Park Reds have brought the city its first semi-pro baseball championship this week, ending a tough, uphill struggle and a string of frustrating second places.

The Reds won the El Camino League championship by defeating Misrack's Sporting Goods of San Francisco 9-4 and 10-7 in final Shaughnessy Playoff games Sunday and Monday in San Carlos.

In addition to championship ability, the Reds had to exhibit championship courage and championship determination to win the games, coming from behind both times.

Menlo finished the season with a record of 31 wins and 20 losses. After June 30, on which date the Reds had an 8-15 mark and nine losses in their last 11 games, the locals roared to a 23-5 record the remainder of the season.

The Reds won their last six contests and eight of their last nine. In El Camino League play, including a 3-0 mark in the playoffs, they compiled a total record of 10-3.

Centerfielder Bob Hattan hit a grand slam home run—his second of the week and the Reds' third of the week—with two out in the sixth inning to give Menlo its come-from-behind verdict in Monday's showdown game at Burton Park in San Carlos.

Menlo had taken a 5-0 lead in the game practically without trying. George Thacher hit a solo home run in the fourth and Lyman Ashley ripped a screeching double to open a two-run second, but otherwise four infield hits and three Misrack's errors accounted for the five runs.

The San Franciscans got one run back off Joe Durelli in the fourth, then broke the door down in the fifth. Two walks and two singles with none out brought in one run and brought in Pete Cocconi.

Cocconi struck out the first two batters he faced but then mired down, issuing a single, walk and two more singles, bringing in five more Misrack's runs and giving the City nine a 7-5 lead.

SET THE STAGE

Ted Farley retired the first two batters of the Menlo sixth before the Reds retaliated. Dick Cesarin, Dale DeSilva, John Carli and Jesse Washington hit consecutive singles.

Carli's shot drove in Cesarin for 6-7 and Washington's loaded the bases for the next batter — Hattan. The "King's" homer was Menlo's 11th in the last eight games.

Cocconi took charge after that, retirin gthe side in order in the sixth and seventh and allowing just one single in each the eighth and ninth. The victory was his seventh against three losses and his sixth in a row.

The College of San Mateo righthander, in his second year with the Reds, had a 6-3 record on July 22 and was Menlo's most effective hurler, but arm injuries permitted him to throw very little the rest of the season.

First baseman Cesarin rapped four hits in the final game, sending his team-leading final batting average to .404. Ashley ripped three shots in the last contest — giving him 8-for-16 in the three games since he returned from Wichita this week.

Every starter hit except the pitchers and the Reds totalled 13 in all.

On Sunday, it was the long ball again, plus a fine pitching performance by southpaw Ron Cataldo, which gave Menlo its victory.

The Reds took a 3-0 lead in the fourth over flame-throwing righthander Rich Nold when Washington hit a two-run triple. In the bottom of the fourth however, a two-out throwing error by DeSilva opened the door and Misrack's then got to Cataldo for three straight singles and a double, scoring four runs to take a 4-3 lead.

In the sixth, Menlo went back in front 5-4 when Washington lined a two-run homer over the left-center field fence. But the contest continued to be a fierce and tight battle until the ninth, when Cesarin hit the first grand slam homerun of his 15-year baseball career over the left field screen.

After his bad fourth inning, Cataldo was near perfect, pitching shutout, one-hit, two walks ball the rest of the game. He retired 11 of the last 13 batters he faced. He boosted his record to 4-2 since joining the club in late July.

A great catch of a Texas Leaguer by shortstop Thacher in the seventh prevented the tying run from scoring.

ALL HIT

Every player in the Reds' lineup hit safely in this game and Ashley, Washington, catcher Bob Poole and Cataldo each got two hits.

Cesarin had five RBI all told, also driving in a run with an infield out. Washington had four.

In two tuneup games for the playoffs last week, the Reds whipped the Peninsula Rookies 12-1 Wednesday night and topped the highly-regarded Philadelphia Phillies Rookie 7-2 Friday night. Both games were played at Washington Park in Santa Clara.

Feature of the Wednesday game was Hattan's grand slam homer in the sixth. Between then and his grand slam Monday, the "King" went hitless in 11 straight times at bat.

DeSilva got two hits, including a double and drove in three runs. Eddie Hoffacker pitched a three-hitter in the seven-inning contest, striking out nine.

Friday night Sam Williams scattered 10 hits for his fifth victory without a defeat for the Reds. Menlo took the lead with a four-run third. Ashley got three hits, including a triple, and DeSilva and Ray Gale each got two.

The Phillies lineu pincluded centerfielder John Firenza, who had signed for a hefty bonus that morning.

THE BRAWL . . . . . was in full swing Sunday after Menlo Park Reds baserunner Dick Cesarin overslid third base in the fourth and thought he had to fight his way back to the bag over Misrack's third sacker Ted Farley and pitcher Rich Nold. Cesarin is behind Menlo catcher Bob Poole (far right), being held apart from Farley (33). Nold (2) is at left. Reds won 9-4, finally.

—Staff photo

WHILE . . . . . he was still strong Monday, Menlo Park Reds chucker Joe Durelli was blowing them by the batters, apparently on his way to an easy victory over Misrack's Sporting Goods in the El Camino League playoff game at Burton Park in San Carlos. He only made it to the fifth inning, but Menlo still won 10-7. Ball is in upper right corner.

In the Garden:

Privet Is Just About the Most Practical Hedge Plant Around

For practical purposes, it's hard to find a better shrub for hedging than privet. It grows fast enough to start clipping within a year, can be kept low and formal or let to grow tall and informal. When properly cared for, it has that neat, clean look which only a boxwood can equal or surpass.

Privet is usually the image of formality and most gardeners picture it only as a clipped row of green or possibly sheared to some unnatural shape by one who fancies the art of topiary. However, privets are also used as informal tall screens and even as specimen shrubs that are permitted to grow into small tree size and shape.

It is as a clipped hedge that we find the greatest use for the varied members of the priviet family. And it will serve us well to review not only the varieties available but also the best method of training them to the hedge shape. This latter is more important than you might think.

The most common mistake made by most gardeners who would have the perfect privet hedge is in the clipping. The natural tendency here is to shear from the top down, a practice which usually results in the hedge's having more foliage at its top than at its base. Looking down the length of the hedge, one finds that the top is broader than the bottom.

This is all wrong, since it does not admit light to lower areas and the eventual result is skimpier and skimpier growth at the base of the hedge until it is on the thin side or even defoliated. Proper shearing consists of creating a slightly pyramidal form so that as much light hits the lower leaves as hits the upper. This permits an even density of foliage throughout the hedge.

The other mistake made by gardeners lies in thinking that privet hedges are self sustaining when it comes to water. Privet will grow through a summer of drought, but the growth is less than luxuriant and the shrub is weakened by thirst, more subject than it should be to attack from whiteflies and other pests.

When privet is planted in a hedge down the property line or in some other out of the way place, be sure it gets watered. One way is to lay a soaker down the length of the hedge at its base.

Most easily recognized by nursery visitors is the California Privet, a fast-growing plant that makes up a majority of the privet hedges in our state. When you plant it, set the plants about a foot apart and cut back the tops to within a foot or so of the ground to encourage good growth at the base. Golden privet, a beautiful hedge plant, is a variety of the California privet.

The wax-leaf or Texas privet is an excellent shrub for medium tall hedges and screens. The leaves are larger than those of the California privet and shiny enough to have been waxed. A varigated form, margined with golden yellow is also available and very popular.

Wax-leaf privet lends itself to training and shearing into myriad shapes. When you see the globe and pyramid forms and the espaliered specimens which nurserymen offer, you might well change your mind about planting it only in a hedge.

The Japanese privet is probably best of the lot for tall screen plantings, either formal or informal. It has three-inch, dark-green leaves and an upright habit that will reach tree proportions if you let it grow. In fact, more and more nurserymen have been offering Japanese privet as a tree. It is ideal in a patio and in other small places when grown this way.

As a tree, or when left to grow informally into a tall hedge or screen, privets produce a froth of white summer blooms. These are not spectacular, but they are certainly not unpleasant to have around. You lose them, of course, when you shear your hedge, but that is the price you pay for formality.

Garden Center To Meet at Fairgrounds

Everyone is invited to attend the San Mateo County Garden Center meeting on Sept. 13 at 8 p.m. in the Garden Center Room in the rear of the San Mateo County Fair and Fiesta Building, 25th and Delaware Sts., San Mateo.

J. W. Dodson of the International Succulent Institute will present a program of colored slides and will have an unusual display of plants.

Everyone is invited to participate in the small show in the following categories: novice (1) "From a Summer Garden" is an arrangement of summer and fall flowers suitable for a gay occasion. (2) "Excitement of the Future" is a contemporary arrangement featuring texture, with permitted accessories.

John Coulter is in charge of the horticulture table and everyone is urged to bring interesting plants or flowers for discussion and identification.

In the horticulture category, people may enter such competition as (1) dahlia, large flower type, one bloom; (2) dahlias, pompom type, three blooms, any color; (3) dahlias, dwarf type, three blooms, same color; (4) fuchsias, double, one variety, four stems; (5) fuchsias, mixed variety, three stems. (6) fuchsias, white, one variety, three stems; (7) any annual, three stems; (8) any perennial, three stems; (9) potted plants.

MAYOR . . . . . William R. Lawson of Menlo Park (left) putted into the ninth hole at par rating ceremonies at Sharon Heights Golf and Country Club's new golf course Friday. s still recovering from his in uries. And big Rick Litteral as moved to Milpitas.

Harry McMillen, a rugged layer of last year, and Dave oling, a light but fast lineman ill thus see a lot of action at he tackle spots. McMillen is 2 and 180 while Poling goes at 6-1 and 165.

Backing them up are Otis Wilks, 6-2 and 200 pounds, much stronger this season than last, and Carl Lane, a 5-11 170-pound defensive specialist.

The leading guard candidates are Mike Capuano, agile 155-pounder who likes the rough going; Mat Lark, 165, or whom the same thing could e said, and Mike Simon, 165, who was a frosh-soph standout.

At end, sophomore Mel Easley is a fast learner at 6-0 and 175 pounds. He's fast and has good hands. Big Art Crum, who as no experience, may help t this spot. He's 6-3 and 200 pounds.

Center John Perez, a veteran of last year's campaign, is a 6-1 165-pounder who improved during every game in 1961, Costello said.

The backfield lineup shows a host of potential Trojan standouts. Dave Cheney and Lou Ciarauffoli are good passers and runners. They'll work he tailback position in Costello's double-wing or short-punt formation.

What about last year's "shotgun" formation? "We won't use it right away," Costello says, "but it will be a part of the offense later.")

Fine speed is possessed by halfbacks Elton Harrison and Bobby Washington, both standout trackmen.

Some surprises developed during the first hard knocking at the Trojan field. Basketball ace Milky Johnson, giving the grid game a try, displayed good footwork and pass-catching ability from a halfback spot.

Chris Kendall was tough to bring down and Frank Rouse pleased Costello with his improvement. John Dewey also showed promise. And Rick Deutscher, a good runner and passer, is expected to help, too.

The biggest of these boys is Kendall, a 170-pounder, Cheney and Ciaruffoli tip the scales at 160.

A newcomer to the scene is Howard Gibson, a halfback transfer from M - A. Costello hadn't yet had a chance to look at Gibson as of press time.

The first Trojan game is a practice contest with Jefferson High in Daly City on Friday, Sept. 21.

"I think we'll have something to show them," said Costello.

Sharon Golf Course Gets Rating of 70

Sharon Heights Golf and Country Club's new golf course got its official par rating by the Northern California Golf Association Friday in a play-through at the course.

The job still has to be completed, but golfers were warned that it's going to be a tough ie, with the NCGA officers giving the course a par rating of 70 from the white tees. Club vice president Lyle Gray said this week that indications are the par from the back tees probably will be 72 when the ratings are all in.

Among others at the rating session Friday were Menlo Park Mayor William R. Lawson, NCGA president Bill Power and NCGA executive secretary Bob Hanna. Several pro fessional and some of the area's other top golfers also attended.

"The NCGA is very interested in the project overall," Lyle said. "Because of its non-profit nature it's being done in the true tradition of the game. We feel Sharon Heights is going to be one of the toughest courses in Northern California."
